OF POLK.

The Secretary of War is sending soldiers South to see that there is a fair election. Then if Tilden or Hayes is elected let them be put in their seat, if it is at the point of the bayonet.

A Failure.
Chambers' Democratic candidate for Senator, had an appointment to speak here last Saturday, but for some reason he failed to speak. It is said that the reason was because he had no crowd. The truth is the farmers are tired of hearing lawyers speak, and make laws for them. They are going to vote for farmer Bradford.

If the proposed amendments to our State Constitution are adopted, then the Legislature elects our Judges. The consequence will be that if a corrupt Judge should once get into power, and he should have money enough, he could always hold the position. Let the people make their candidates for the Legislature speak out on that subject. The only way to have an incorruptible judiciary is for the people to keep the election in their own hands; then if a Judge becomes corrupt, he can be easily voted out.

Some of the Democratic party of the South think if Tilden is elected they will get pay for their negroes. The Brownsville Democrat and Tipton Record openly assert it. In this they are badly fooled. That party has already cost the Government several thousand millions, and the people of the North and West will never put up with it. If such a thing should ever come up, then there will be a war that is a war. The blood that was shed in the last will be but a drop in the bucket of the next.

Isiah G. Harris.
This well-known and experienced gentleman addressed the people of Bradley County at the Court House in this city, October 17th, and for about two and one-half hours held a promiscuous audience to strict attention—something that few of the political orators of the day can do. The Ex-Governor is understood to be a candidate for the U. S. Senate, and as he depends only on Democratic votes for election, he follows out the campaign policy of that party to the letter—a general denunciation of Grant and Republican administration being his theme.

He starts out with the proposition that whichever party succeeds in November next, the Government will be administered according to the principles of that party, then as a gauge by which to determine which of the parties best deserves the reins at the National Capitol, he adds this additional proposition: He says to his audience, "If you have enjoyed a greater degree of prosperity, a larger measure of happiness, and if peace has been among you in greater fullness during the last sixteen years of undisputed Republican control than during the last sixteen years of Democratic rule, then the Republican party is the one for you to support. But, on the other hand, if in looking back you find those old days of Democratic administration were more prosperous, happy and peaceful, you can but vote to re-instate the old state of affairs."

This sounds very well and to a stranger to American politics would appear to be very plausible indeed, but unfortunately for the Governor and his argument the people of this country and of the South in particular, know the cause of the difference in the value of property, the depression of spirits, and the lack of business activity. We have had a war such as earth never saw before and we are in the country that was subjected to its ravages, the debt it made is upon us in our impoverished state, and men and women realize that it is those who rashly and wickedly sought to destroy our common country and thus brought about this war, who are responsible for the difference between the old times and the new, if there is such a difference. Mr. Harris was one of the noted and influential leaders in the acts that so nearly destroyed all we hold dear—he was disloyal to his country—the death of the Harmons and others says he was cruel and vindictive, and he says "he has nothing to apologize for"—he put all his energies into action on the wrong side, and by his acts earned a world wide reputation as a traitor not only to the country at large, but to the citizens of his own State who differed with him in public sentiments, and we submit that when we look back to the old times and think of them as being better than those of the present, we can say to Ex-Gov. Harris, "you, yourself, had a larger share than most men in making this difference by using the influence of a great mind to precipitate the war on our country."

Yet, with all his record he is drawing comparisons between the two terms of years mentioned and is a great "reformer." Democracy must be hard run. We call the attention of our old Whig readers to one phase of the Governor's talk—He delights to dwell on the "good old times of Democratic and Whig control" when he knows that the Democratic party fought the Whigs first and last and are the same party now as ever, while of the Whigs nothing is left except their principles, and they are advocated and carried out by the Republican party, and have proved their worth to the country all through the years they have been practiced. Democracy hates these principles as much as ever. Mr. Harris takes up the "hard times" subject and handles it in a manner purely Democratic, and of course makes out that the Republican party is the cause of the present stringency in money matters and says low prices can be traced to the same source. We wanted to ask the Governor why he did not go further and say we are also to blame for "hard times" in England, in Germany, in Russia, in Austria, Spain, Italy, China, the Indies, Japan &c., &c. The Republican party is just as much to be charged with the universal commercial stagnation as with our home trouble, and it has no hand in either. The reason wheat brings only one dollar is that the markets of the old world are largely supplied from what has been raised there, while we in the United States have raised more than ever before by millions of bushels. The market is full, and the prices of all the commodities are regulated by the demand for them. Corn is low because we have raised it in unmeasured quantities during the last two seasons, and all productions of whatever sort are governed by the same law of value. Yet Mr. Harris comes to the people with the assertion that it is the fault of the party in power that what we have doesn't sell for more. He says a great many other things that space forbids us to notice in this issue, but we ask our readers to remember that he "has nothing to apologize for" in all his record, that such misrepresentations as he deals in, in many instances do not show honor nor statesmanship, and finally, that with all the past and the living present before him he is a "reformer" of the "reformers" and makes great battle for Samuel J. Tilden, the man who told Gov. Harris and the rest of the Secessionists they had a right to destroy this Union if they wanted to. We will give this speech further notice in the future.

EMERSON ETHERIDGE.

The Great Republican Orator at Cleveland.

Few are the opportunities that the people of this section have for gaining a knowledge of the truth of the political affairs of our country that at all compare with the effort of Mr. Etheridge at this city Oct. 18th. Anything like a recital of his speech is beyond our intention—for one must see and hear for himself to get the full benefit of it. We assert without the fear of successful contradiction, that he told more practical truth in a manner more plain and comprehensive than has any other speaker who has addressed us in years. His remarks were complete in every detail and Democracy got one seathing it will remember it has any memory—at times he strikes them with the thunders of eloquence as he pictures the wretchedness of their political record, and again he convulses his hearers with laughter at his illustrations that are so keen and cutting in their application to the opposition party. Those who missed the opportunity to hear him lost a great deal, no matter which party they belong to. We give a few of the thoughts he presented:

He speaks of the importance of the campaign and of the impending dangers that we are to shun. Democracy is the same as in '61—ranged under the same old leaders, the Vances, Harries, Hamptons &c.—determined to gain by the ballot box what they lost by the sword and bayonet, and to secure this end they are practicing the grossest acts of fraud, intimidation and murder. The old spirit of ante-bellum days is asserting itself, and the question for us to decide is can we trust the country in their keeping who were so lately trying to destroy its existence or will we let it remain in the hands of those who upheld it against the most determined opposition. Republicans do you propose to undo your good work by turning it over to your political enemies?

Mr. Tilden's record in regard to the war gave him the nomination at St. Louis, together with his political trickery. Democracy must have a "solid South" and no Union man would fill the bill. When our country was on the verge of disunion, when the voice of every man, and especially those of influence like Mr. Tilden should have been on the side of peace and right, he was talking and writing to the effect that the South had a right to secede if it wished and thus bring on the war that is the cause of our present load of debt and the death and devastation that reigned about us. Do we want such a man for President or will we work and vote for Hayes and Wheeler, men who were not traitors in spirit or in deed, but loved and fought for the salvation of their country? Is loyalty at a discount with the people and has the fact of one's having been a traitor lost its dishonor?

Mr. Etheridge spoke of the record of the Democratic and Whig parties and showed that the country is being governed substantially on Whig principles. He showed that the tariff in its letter and working is the same as advocated by them years ago—that the public school system of the present is in all its worth and efficiency, just what the Whigs worked for in the past, that the system of internal improvements that is making our rivers and lakes public highways of untold value to the nation, is all traceable directly to the same source—that our national currency is purely Whig and the best in the world, and finally that all the great work begun by the Whig party is being carried out by the Republicans. The conclusion is easy—a Whig should be identified with the Republican party to help perpetuate his principles and fight his old enemy, Democracy.

Mr. Etheridge touches a vital point in the political economy of the United States when he speaks of the teaching a large number of the young of the South are receiving. Fathers are bringing up their boys to hate and despise the North and the only Government they can call their own. Fostering and perpetuating sectionalism in all its evil tendencies by the most utterly mischievous and wicked means.

Republicans are not doing this, nor those who put their lives and fortunes on the right side during the war. Shall we vote to encourage the only party that encourages men as members and leaders? If the youth of our land obey such vile teachings where will the end be and what the result? The explanation of the Tariff and its present workings was simple, conclusive and unanswerable. Mr. Etheridge showed the system to be the most complete and just of any known, the result of years of comparison and legislation, and that Democracy with all its howling against the present Tariff laws, did not dare to touch one of them through its long session of eight months in Congress. If the system is so wretched, why did not the Democratic House bring forward some amendment in favor of the free trade policy of that party?—they dared not, and Morrison, Chairman of the Ways and Means committee, has a bill pending to keep the rates at least as high as at present.

He reviewed the history and some of the action of the Southern Historical Society, and showed by the recorded words of Wade Hampton and others that the principles on which the South seceded and brought on the war, are yet alive in the hearts of these old leaders in rebellion. Wade Hampton is the leader of the Democracy in South Carolina and is shouting for Tilden and "reform." Can we trust these men who plunged our country into a ruinous civil war?

Taxation is the bugbear on which Democracy base a large part of their speechmaking—Federal taxation—while the facts in the case show that our present system of Internal Revenue is all we, as a people, can ask. Southern Democrats ought not to complain at least, for it is the cost of the war they made that makes the necessity for this taxation on whiskey tobacco &c. The debt must be paid, pensions call for money, and as Democracy made this debt and all this extra expense why should they howl about taxation? If any one complains it should be Republicans and all who stand true to their country. But as we said, the system is just and the money comes off from articles not necessities but luxuries. But how about State taxation? We do not see any Federal tax collector, but the man who collects State, County, and Corporation taxes—or the men—makes his appearance very often, and everything from the shelter over us to our smallest dog is taxed, and we ask what becomes of all we pay to the State of Tennessee? Our debt is not being paid nor the interest on it. The State is governed by the same "reform" Democrats who claim to want to do so much for the country, and these same men who squander our State taxes are all in harness working for this same Samuel J. Tilden. It is as that prominent Democratic paper, the Cincinnati Enquirer said: "All the thieves and rascals are for Tilden."

Mr. Etheridge noticed many other points, but space will not permit of further comment at this time. His speech was a success in every way.

THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

The following is the platform, as adopted by the National Republican Convention that nominated Hayes and Wheeler:

When in the economy of Providence this land was to be purged of human slavery, and when the strength of the Government of the people, by the people, for the people, was demonstrated, the Republican party came into power. Its deeds have passed into history, and we look back to them with pride. Incited by their memories and high aims for the good of our country and mankind, and looking to the future with unfaltering courage, hope and purpose, we, the representatives of the party in National Convention assembled make the following declaration of principles:

First. The United States of America as a nation, not a league; by the combined working of the National and State governments under their respective Constitutions, the rights of every citizen are secured at home and protected abroad, and their common welfare promoted.

Second. The Republican party has preserved those governments to the hundredth anniversary of the nation's birth, and they are now embodiments of the great truths spoken at its cradle, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, among which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; that for the attainment of these ends governments have been instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; until those truths are cheerfully obeyed, if needed to be vigorously enforced, the work of the Republican party is unfinished. The permanent pacification of the Southern section of the Union, the complete protection of all its citizens in the free enjoyment of all their rights and duties to which the Republican party are sincerely pledged. [Applause.] The power to provide for the enforcement of principles embodied in the recent constitutional amendments is vested by the amendments in the Congress of the United States, and we declare it to be the solemn obligation of the legislative and executive departments of the Government to put into immediate and vigorous exercise all their constitutional powers for removing any just causes of discontent on the part of any class, and securing every American citizen complete liberty and exact equality in the exercise of all civil, political and public rights [Applause.] To this end we imperatively demand a courage and fidelity to those duties shall not after until these results are placed beyond dispute or recall.

Fourth. In the first act of Congress signed by President Grant, the National Government assumed to remove any doubts of its purpose to discharge all just obligations to public creditors and solemnly pledged its faith to make provision at the earliest practicable period for redemption of the United States notes in coin. [Cheers.] Commercial prosperity, public morals and national credit demand that this promise be fulfilled by a continuous and steady progress to specie payment. [Loud and long-continued applause and cheers.]

Fifth. Under the constitution the Presidents and heads of departments are to make nominations for office; the Senate is to advise and consent to the appointments, and the House of Representatives is to accuse and prosecute faithless officers. The best interests of the public service demand that this distinctiveness be respected, that Senators and Representatives who may be judges and accusers, should not dictate appointments to office. The variable rule for appointments should have reference to the honesty, fidelity and capacity of aspirants; giving to the party in power those places where harmony and vigor of administration require its policy to be represented, but permitting all others to be filled by persons selected with sole reference to efficiency of public service, and the right of citizens to share in the honor of rendering faithful service to their country.

Sixth. We rejoice in the quickening conscience of the people concerning political affairs; will hold all public officers to a rigid responsibility and encourage that the prosecution and punishment of all who betray official trusts shall be speedy, thorough and unsparring. [Cheers.]

Seventh. The public school system of several States is the bulwark of the American Republic; and with a view to its security and permanence we recommend an amendment to the constitution of the United States, for bidding the application of any public funds or property for the benefit of any schools or institutions under sectarian control. [Great cheering continued several minutes.] In response to repeated calls, Gen. Hawley read the plank a second time, and the delegates and audience repeated the cheers.

The revenue necessary for the current expenditures and the obligation of the public debt must be largely derived from duties upon importations which so far as possible, should be adjusted to promote the interest of American labor, and advance the prosperity of the whole country.

Ninth. We reaffirm our opposition to further grants of the public lands to corporations and monopolies, and demand that the national domain be devoted to free homes for the people.

Tenth. It is the imperative duty of the government to so modify existing treaties with European governments that the same protection shall be afforded to adopt American citizens that is given to native born, and all necessary laws be passed to protect emigrants in the absence of power in the State for that purpose.

Eleventh. It is the immediate duty of congress to full investigate the effect of the emigration and importation of Mongolians on the moral and material interests of the country.

Twelfth. The Republican party recognizes with approval the substantial advance recently made toward the establishment of equal rights woman by the many important amendments affected by Republican Legislatures in the laws which concern the personal and property relations of wives, mothers and widows, and by the appointment and election of women to the superintendence of education, charities and other public trusts. The honest demand of this class of citizens, for additional rights and privileges and immunities should be treated with respectful consideration.

Thirteenth. The constitution confers upon congress sovereign power over the territories of the United States for their government, and in the exercise of this power, it is the right and duty of congress to prohibit and extirpate in the territories that relic or barbarism, polygamy, and we demand such legislation as shall secure this end, and the supremacy of American institutions in all the Territories. [Applause.]
